Strategy and Policy Development

You may build upon logic models you have already developed to guide you through this process. As you develop your logic model, make sure to consider questions below.

01

What have you defined as the problem?

02

What are the underlying causes of the problem?

03

What would a solution to the problem look like?

04

Who are your target populations?

This may include teens themselves, parents, teachers, school administrators, doctors, afterschool caregivers, etc.

05

What systems (government, non-profit agencies, schools, businesses, etc.) need to be involved to make the change you seek?

06

How could you reach or impact the identified groups?

07

What policy strategies do you plan to employ in order to target these populations?

08

How can the prevention of TDV be achieved through the selected policy?

09

How will your efforts prevent TDV or support prevention efforts?

10

What resources do you need to effectively inform the target groups?

11

How can you capitalize on existing resources and partnerships? How will you know when you are successful?

12

What indicators will you use to measure your achievements and impact?
